Definitions

A course, as intended in this web site and in any other communication from us, is described in detail in each single case, with particular attention to what it includes. It is intended that anything not clearly listed as "included" is not included.

In any case flights are never included and have to be booked at a travel agent in the guests' country of origin.

A cooking school, cooking class and cooking course is assumed to be the activity involving a tutor and some clients involved together in a cooking activity.

The aim of this is to transmit some of the tutor's knowledge and skills to the clients.

A tutor can be a professional cook or an amateur cook with excellent cooking skills and knowledge. The selection of both professional and amateur cooks is made by Tasteof.it's staff.
